

I had a trip to southbank. I sketched scenaries through small paper board. I noticed some people, birds and dogs passing by. I looked over the bridge to see refer to waves. I watched carefully of public constructions of how people managed to live aside a river. I used a pencil to draw whole things. I used single line to make a drawing. In my reflection, I think I could make some shadows. I could smudge my pencil using finger to express shadow.

