

Brief Concept

I tried to represent conversation between two people as connection. I converted words to images. If only words are shown as images, they are easy to be understood since people believe what they see. On the other hand, I tried to express inconvenience between two people who are one talking but the other speak using image. They don't connect anymore. I therefore define the circumstance as empathic and empathetic moment between the two. Furthermore, If the inconvenience is kept for a while, I can imagine what will happen next. People who are empathic will blame the opposite since the empathic people are more likely to feel connected.

I used Puppet pin to move around the character. I mostly trimpassed and transformed my assets. I collected and drew my assets in a comics drawing program. I like my outcome which was quite successfully puppet pined. However I think I could learn more with trimpassing texts. I found it hard doing it. I could also make even more use of photos and comics assets. I could do better if I reach to it.
